

Events and Parties

Editors Picks: 11 Things Not to Miss in New York's Art World This Week

This week, the Brooklyn Museum hosts a panel of female museum directors, and Susan Cianciolo has a show at Bridget Donahue Gallery.

Artnet News, February 3, 2020

Through Saturday, March 28

Nicholas Galanin, Land Swipe (2019). Courtesy of the artist and Peter Blum Gallery, New York.

11. “Nicholas Galanin: Carry a Song / Disrupt an Anthem” at Peter Blum

Fresh off being featured in the 2019 Whitney Biennial—and being among the artists whose demands to remove their work from the show helped push embattled trustee Warren B. Kanders out of the boardroom for good—Nicholas Galanin returns to New York for his first solo gallery exhibition in the city. The show brings together works in multiple media to surface the stories and resilience of Indigenous American communities (especially the Tlingit and Unanga communities of which Galanin is a part), as well as visualize the inherent conflict between their independence and the merciless colonial history of the United States.

Location: 176 Grand Street

Price: Free

Time: Tuesday–Friday, 10 a.m.–6 p.m.; Saturdays, 11 a.m.–6 p.m.

—Tim Schneider